

American Indian and Alaska Native Mental Health: Eliminating Domestic Violence and its Outcomes 2012 Native American Heritage Month Webinar Event

Tuesday, November 27th, 3:00-4:30pm ET
(2pm CT/1pm MT/12pm PT/11am AKT)

Sponsored by

NAMI Multicultural Action Center,
First Nations Behavioral Health Association, and Indian Health Service Division of Behavioral Health

In celebration of Native American Heritage Month, First Nations Behavioral Health Association, Indian Health Service and NAMI are proud to host our 4th annual national webinar focused on current initiatives in American Indian/Alaska Native (AIAN) mental health with an emphasis on programs to prevent and eliminate domestic violence and its outcomes.

This 90-minute webinar will feature updates from each sponsor and feature presentations from the National Indigenous Women's Resource Center and Family Wellness Warriors Initiative of the Southcentral Foundation.

Featured presenters:

- ◆ Gwendolyn Packard (Ihanktonwan Dakota), Program Specialist, National Indigenous Women's Resource Center
- ◆ Kyle Newman (Yup'ik), Clinical Associate, Family Wellness Warriors Initiative Southcentral Foundation

Registration:

Participation is open to any and all interested and is free of charge. Registration is only required to provide contact information for receiving participation details. Though automatic response will be sent to you upon registering, updated participant information and reminders for the webinar will also be provided in advance of the event by hosts.

Click here to register in advance of the event.

Questions? Contact Marin Swesey. Available assistance is limited during the event.
Recordings will be made available for all registrants.